COLLEGE
OF THE IMMACULATE CONCEPTION.

---

THIRTY-FIFTH YEAR.

---

The College of the Immaculate Conception, conducted by the Fathers of the Society of Jesus, was founded in December, 1847; and was endowed by the Legislature of Louisiana, March, 1856, with all the rights and privileges of a University.

The Course of Studies is two-fold: the Undergraduate or Classical and the Commercial, to which is added a Preparatory Department for younger boys.

The Classical Course, which leads to the degree of Bachelor of Arts, embraces the study of Mental and Moral Philosophy; the English, Latin, Greek and French languages; Rhetoric, Belles-Lettres and Elocution; Arithmetic, Mathematics and the Natural Sciences; History, Geography and Mythology. To obtain the degree of Master of Arts, the student, after receiving the degree of A. B., must devote another year to the study of Philosophy, or two years to any of the learned professions.

The Commercial Course embraces all the studies of the Classical Course, Latin and Greek excepted. At the completion of the course, honorary certificates are conferred on such as are, on examination, found deserving of the honor. The degree of Bachelor of Science can be obtained by devoting an additional year to the study of Philosophy, Mathematics and Literature.

The Collegiate year, which begins on the first Monday of October, and closes about the end of July, is divided into two terms, the second beginning in March. At the close of each term the students are examined and prizes are awarded to those who attain the required number of marks.

At the beginning of each month the places or degrees of merit obtained by the students during the previous month are publicly proclaimed, and testimonials awarded to those who have attained the prescribed degree of excellence. A report of these marks is given to every student that it may be signed at home by his parents.

When a student presents himself for admission he is examined by the Prefect of Studies, and placed in the class for which he is qualified. Students are not admitted unless they know how to read and write.

As the progress of the students greatly depends on their regular attendance at school, and on their private studies at home, to which three hours ought to be devoted daily, parents are earnestly requested to see that these points be faithfully carried out.

In case of absence, a note from the parents is invariably required. When students are to be withdrawn from the Institution, due notice should be given to the President or Vice-President.

The aim of the Faculty being to prepare young men for the arduous duties of life, great attention and care are given not only to Literature and Science, but also to Religion, that most essential of all arts and sciences, without which there can be no complete and harmonious development of the intellect and heart of man. Hence the doctrine and practices of religion are carefully taught, and the greatest attention paid to morals.

TERMS.

Tuition per month, payable in advance..... $6 00

Graduates of the Institution pay a fee of $5 00 on the reception of their diplomas.

Students of Chemistry and Natural Philosophy pay $10 00 a year for the use of chemical and philosophical apparatus.

N. B.—No deduction is made for any absence less than half a month.

Books and stationery are furnished by the College at current prices.

COLLEGE REGULATIONS.

Students are admitted into the College yard at 8 A. M. All are obliged to be present at 8:45 A. M., at which hour they go to church.

The hours of class are from nine o'clock in the morning until three in the afternoon, with recesses at convenient intervals. During these recesses no student will be allowed to leave the College premises without special permission.

Thursday is the weekly holiday.

Once every month there is mass and communion at 7 A. M., at which all the Catholic students are obliged to attend.

All must be clean and neat in person and apparel, polite and obedient to the officers of the College, and respectful to their companions.

Offences detrimental to the reputation of the College, or obstructive to the good of other pupils, are grounds for expulsion. The ordinary causes of dismissal are insubordination, continued inapplication to study and bad conduct.

Boisterous conduct, dangerous and rough plays are prohibited. In fine, any conduct unbecoming the character of a gentleman, will be regarded as a violation of the College rules.

Any injury to the College walls or furniture, besides subjecting the offender to punishment, will be repaired at the expense of his parents.

T. W. BUTLER, S. J., President.

Examination Papers.

1883.

I.—MENTAL PHILOSOPHY.

A.—FORMAL LOGIC.

1. Origin, Definition and Division of Logic.
2. The Three Operations of the Mind—Simple Apprehension, Judgment, Reasoning.
3. Canons of the Syllogism. Other Forms of Argument.
4. Induction. Fallacies.

B.—APPLIED LOGIC.

1. Logical truth is found fully and properly only in judgment.
2. The states of the mind in respect to truth are ignorance, doubt, opinion and certitude.
3. Universal doubt is physically and metaphysically impossible.
4. Not every truth is demonstrable, nor does every truth require demonstration.
5. Every universal as such is formed by the mind; but it is truly founded in the real objects which it includes.
6. Consciousness, simple intelligence, reason and sensibility are infallible means of acquiring true and certain knowledge.
7. The only sufficient reason of the representations we have of bodies and of the certitude of their existence is their real existence, and therefore idealism of whatever shade must be rejected.

8. Neither divine revelation nor the general consent of mankind can be the only and first criterion of truth.
9. Neither the clear and distinct idea of Descartes, nor the instinct of faith, nor the testimony of consciousness, nor the blind impulse of admitting something as true can be the last motive of certitude.
10. The general motive or criterion of all true and certain knowledge is objective evidence, or the truth of the object manifested to the mind.
11. Human testimony in matters of fact is sometimes a motive of faith morally certain.
12. There are certain truths which absolutely and by their very nature are above the reach of human reason, but which cannot on this account be said to be against reason.
13. Truths that are above reason can be made known to reason by divine revelation.

C.—METAPHYSICS.

1. Intrinsic possibility depends neither on the existence of beings nor on the human intellect.
2. Neither does it depend on the power or the free will of God, but directly on the divine intellect and remotely on the divine essence.
3. Matter is contingent, and therefore began to exist by creation.
4. Matter is absolutely incapable of sensation.
5. The principle of life in animals though simple is not a substance, but depends in its existence on the matter which it informs.
6. The human soul is a simple and spiritual substance by nature, one free and immortal.
7. There exists a necessary being—the intelligent cause of the universe—who is most simple, eternal, immutable, immense and infinite.

D.—ETHICS.

1. No created object can be the ultimate end of man.
2. The distinction between moral good and evil is intrinsic.
3. Hence neither public nor private utility is a standard whereby to judge of the morality of an action.
4. Natural law is absolutely immutable, and its more general principles can be ignored by no one.
5. Man must worship God both internally and externally, and acquire the knowledge necessary for the attainment of his end.
6. The right of possessing stable property is not derived from any social contract, but is grounded on the natural law.
7. The marriage bond is by its nature perpetual; hence divorce properly so called is unlawful.
8. All social authority is from God, but the subject exercising civil authority is not necessarily determined immediately by God.

II.—NATURAL PHILOSOPHY.

1. Napiers' circular parts and analogies in their application to the solution of spherical triangles. Transformation of co-ordinates. Determination and discussion of the equations to the Circle, Ellipse, Parabola and Hyperbola.
2. Uniform motion; uniformly accelerated motion. Their formulæ and application to falling bodies. Atwood's machine.
3. Composition and decomposition of angular forces. Proof of the parallelogram of forces by Du Chayla. Composition of parallel forces.
4. Equilibrium of forces.—Application of these principles to simple machines. Inclined Plane. Balance. Conditions of its delicacy.

5. Equality of pressure in liquids. Pascal's law. Hydraulic press. Vertical, downward and upward pressures. Equilibrium of one or two liquids in communicating vessels. Principle of Archimedes; its application to determine the specific gravity of bodies.
6. Properties of gases. Atmosphere. Principal Barometers. Mariotte's law. Air pump. Suction and force pumps.
7. Production and propagation of sound. Reflection, refraction and interference of sound. Method for determining the velocity of sound. Echoes.
8. Different kinds of thermometers. Laws of fusion, solidification, evaporation, ebullition. Principle of Hygrometry. Steam Engine.
9. Laws of reflection and refraction of light. Different kinds of images in spherical mirrors and lenses. Their geometrical determination. Explanation of simple and compound microscopes; of the different kinds of reflecting and refracting telescopes.
10. Production, distribution and condensation of statical electricity. Electrophorns. Ramsden's and Holtz's machines.
11. Sources of dynamical electricity. Principal batteries with two liquids. Magneto-electric induction, Ruhmkorff's coil. Telephone. Morse's Telegraph.
12. Natural and artificial magnets. Methods of magnetization. Ampère's theory of magnetism.
13. Classification of non-metallic elements according to quantivalence. Compounds of the principal bodies of each group with H: 1st F and Cl; 2d O and S; 3d and 4th C.
14. General properties of metals. Principal properties of Ag, Hg, Au, Cu.
15. Sulphuric, carbonic, nitric and hydrochloric acids. Common alcohol.
16. Photography. Spectrum analysis in its application to terrestrial and stellar chemistry.

Tableaux.

I. THE BRITON KING.

(AFTER ACT II.)

Eric, hear! while unto thee
We swell the tide of minstrelsy.
O'er Arvon's peaks, now fast and far
Rolls the tide of Saxon War;
Athwart its gloom, our battle sword
Shall flash for thee, our King, our Lord.

---

II. THE CAPTIVES.

(AFTER ACT III.)

Hark! an arrow hurtling by;
Hark! a nation's mournful cry,
Who shall now afford relief?
Ta'en is Cambria's noble chief;
Ne'er his hand on battle plain,
Freedom's sword shall wield again.

---

III. THE DAY OF WOE.

(AFTER ACT V.)

Alas! their lives in glory sped,
Gently sleep the princely dead.
Cambrians! bid your notes of woe.
In solemn numbers sadly flow;
Let them to all distant ears,
Tell your anguish and your tears.
